Hello everyone,

If you missed our October Assembly/Halloween Parade... you missed an opportunity to see adorable children “dressed to the nines” in various flamboyant costumes and behaving with, of course, Self Control, the character quality for our 2nd grade class.

Our assembly is only the prelude to our traditional Harvest Fair Day (Sunday, October 30th). It is an occasion dedicated to our families, friends, and community. This event brings to mind our school milestone of 50 years. I can’t help but look back at how our “Harvest Fair Days” have evolved and how many alumni and alumni parents come back home to revisit their PHS childhood. I look forward to greeting you as well as our alumni and children this week-end...

Warmly,

Patricia Cailler

Wow! It's almost November. So far, we have had a fabulous Metric Week and an author visit for grades K-3.

Mrs. Metzler's Tour de France theme for Metric Week was an excellent "vehicle" for discussing France, cycling, and metric measurements.

Wingo author, Justin Ezzi, came on September 29 and after reviewing the story line with the children on a white board, they all worked together to create a song to the "Bingo" melody. It was inspired!

During October we have been enjoying our large collection of Halloween books. An annual favorite is Hoodwinked by Arthur Howard.

Mrs. Bakkila's second graders were magical in their presentation of "Self-Control." What an excellent character quality for the month we enjoy Halloween! Dark chocolate, please.

Hope you enjoyed our fun-filled Harvest Fair and had a delicious and nutritious (?) Halloween!
